

One Georgia: Advancing Health Equity Amidst a New Normal

SAVE THE DATE

March 31- April 2, 2021

Research — Policy — Practice

Georgia CTSA's Community Engagement 5th Biennial Forum

What: 5th Biennial Forum to highlight advances in community health, learn from each other about our collective potential, and plan action steps to achieve collaborative efforts that reflect the art and science of achieving optimal community health through research, policy, and practice

Why: Objectives

1. To discuss research challenges, opportunities and innovations presented by the COVID-19 pandemic
2. Highlight research designed to improve community health through healthcare systems in rural and urban settings;
3. Examine evidence-based interventions connecting health equity, social justice and other social determinants of health;
4. Demonstrate the importance of and commitment to having full engagement of community leaders in research, policy, and practice designed to address Georgia's obstinate health disparities

Who: All who have a desire to improve community health in Georgia through partnerships and collaborative efforts, including Community-Based Organizations, Academic Researchers, Public Health/Medical Professionals, and Students.

Where: Central Georgia Technical College, Macon, GA*

Features: Content experts, poster presentations, breakout sessions on research, policy, and practice to improve the health of Georgia communities

More information: georgiactsa.org/community/community-health-matters-forum

As we monitor the COVID-19 path, we will follow guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and are prepared for virtual convenings. If necessary, our forum will be virtual.*